

Dear Jessica,

What a night!

ArtsJam 2014 was a smashing success, welcoming over 250 longtime and new friends and far exceeding our fundraising goals. We couldn't have found a more beautiful space than Affirmation Arts to host the event, and the soulful jazz performed by Jessica Lee and America's Arts and Music Crossroads was the perfect soundtrack for this dynamic evening.

The overwhelming support for the arts as a critical component of a well-rounded education was a victory not just for CAE, but for every New York City public school student who has yet to discover the creativity and confidence the arts can instill.

NYC Councilmember Jimmy Van Bramer, CAE Board Chair Jill Braufman, CAE Executive Director Eric G. Pryor

NYC Comptroller Scott Stringer, CAE Board Chair Jill Braufman, Honoree Principal Ramon Gonzalez

For all those who attended, supported, or donated to the event, thank you so much! And to all our friends, your commitment to ensuring the equitable delivery of arts education is inspiring.

Together, we will ensure all New York City public school students receive the education they deserve!

Warm regards,

Eric G. Pryor
Executive Director

P.S. If you came as a guest or missed the event but would like to support CAE's programming and advocacy work, you can make a donation by clicking here. Thank you!